The Alice Gu-Zheng Ensemble, a non-profit organization, was founded in 2002 by Alice and her husband, Kent, who are the instructors. This ensemble has more than forty gu-zheng enthusiasts, ranging from ages six to sixty five, and has held 178 public performances in Washington DC area from June 2002 to July 2012. This ensemble was invited to perform at different universities, government departments, libraries, as well as shopping centers. Such as: Millennium Stage of the Kennedy Center, Strathmore Music Center, National Hall Square of Smithsonian Museum , Capital Hill, Senator Building, Library of Congress, Washington Monument Park, NASA, DC Mayor's Office, US Department of Education, George Mason University, John Hopkins University, Tysons Corner Shopping Center, Lakeforest Mall, and Fair Oak Mall etc.

Throughout the years, this group discovered that many Asian and American people, children and adults, have a great deal of interest in this Chinese musical instrument. The ensemble's main goal is to introduce this ancient art to the Washington Metropolitan area and let others have opportunity to enjoy this beautiful music.
